CHERYL WILD-DONDE'VILLE

ASSOCIATE

Cheryl Wild-Donde'Ville is a litigation attorney with Waltzer Wiygul & Garside in the firm's New Orleans office. Although she handles a wide variety of general legal matters, Cheryl predominantly practices personal injury claims, including wrongful death, premises liability, auto and trucking collisions, and Jones Act seaman claims. Since the tragedy of the BP Oil Spill, Cheryl has worked tirelessly to secure just compensation for hundreds of clients, including commercial fisherman.

“My legal background and experience is varied and offers me a lot of challenges, which keeps me on my toes. No matter the type of case that I'm handling, whether it is a transportation matter or working to help commercial fishermen's claims, our mission to serve our clients is what keeps us motivated.”

Cheryl grew up locally on the Northshore and graduated from Louisiana State University in 2000 as a member of the Honor's College and University Dean's List. Throughout her four years at LSU, Cheryl worked as the Chancellor's Student Aide within the Political Science Department, assisting with research. In 2003, Cheryl graduated from Tulane Law School with an award for Highest Mark in Community Property, a Specialization Certificate in Admiralty and Maritime Law, and as a member of the Dean's Board for Speakers and Colloquia. That same year, she was admitted to the State Bar of Louisiana. Later, in 2011, Cheryl was admitted to the State Bar of Mississippi.
